Who are Women in BIM?

Women in BIM are a not-for-profit organization supporting the future of a diverse and inclusive Construction Industry. Our industry globally is rife with problems, diversity being only one factor, but the industry is at a pivotal shift with BIM and Digital Construction methods dominating the construction industry landscape.

This group was created to address the low representation of women in BIM related roles as well as wider industry issues such as BIM skills shortages and lack of experts in this field.
